Tactical Dispatching

This Tactical Dispatch course is designed to prepare dispatchers to support field units as an essential component of a tactical response team and prepare any dispatcher for the ever increasing instances of active and possible multiple casualty events. This highly interactive course is comprehensive, focusing on core tactical dispatch competencies and what to expect as rapidly moving events unfold. Course content includes a review of the Incident Command System, an introduction to SWAT terminology, and the roles and responsibilities of the various teams and the team members.

During the final day, students will apply what they learned in this course and demonstrate the duties and responsibilities of a Tactical Dispatcher while completing a hands on field application of their new skills.
